

An example

Let's see CSS in action. Below we see two identical copies of HTML, but styled differently.

Here is the HTML:

```
She looked over the top of her book and whispered <q>I'm hungry.</q> My heart stopped.
```

And now two very different looks:

She looked over the top of her book and whispered
heart stopped.

I'm hungry.

My

She looked over the top of her book and whispered

i'm hungry.

My heart stopped.

Both of these use the exact same HTML. It is the CSS that makes them so different. So let's get started.